VII Information on living conditions at Duty Station at Maputo, Mozambique

Information is provided upon arrival to orient UN personnel to settle in at work and at home in Mozambique. Housing in Maputo is expensive. Some common strategies to find a place to live include take something temporary, take over the place of someone who's leaving, or use a real estate agent. For shopping, you will find everything in Maputo (less in other parts of the country) although the selection is not always very wide. Consumer goods are relatively more expensive compared to neighbouring South Africa. Spouses can get a residence visa however this is not a work permit in Mozambique. If your spouse gets a local job he/she will be required to enter the country by invitation of the new employer. For children, there are a number of international schools in Mozambique. The language of instruction is English for the majority of the schools, however there are also Portuguese and French international schools, mostly located in the capital. Demand is high, and space is limited so applying for admission should be a main priority, prior to moving to Mozambique. Some of the international schools include the American international school of Mozambique, French School, Maputo International School.

Crimes include petty theft, residential break-in and street robbery. Rates tend to be higher in urban areas. Most urban crime is perpetrated by lone criminals and/or street gangs. Assailants are commonly armed with weapons such as knives and firearms. Armed robberies and residential breaks-ins take place in Maputo and other urban locations. Carjacking are not common but do take place in urban locations. diplomatic community including the UN is supported by the Diplomatic Police. In Maputo the UN is supported by the Emergency Response Unit (ERU) managed by the UN. In the provinces, the number of security incidents reported is lower.

Traffic accidents are common due to the condition of the roads, poor driving and vehicle standards. Always drive carefully and be aware of pedestrians using the roads. A large percentage of the tertiary road network is still unpaved and during the rainy season roads and bridges especially outside of Maputo frequently wash out. Roads outside of Maputo are poorly illuminated, poorly maintained and hazardous to drive. For the UN, no official missions are allowed during the hours of darkness.

Mozambique is a malaria zone. During summer (September to March) the threat of malaria is worse, therefore it is important to take the necessary precautions, whether it be tablets or repellents. All tap water is assumed to be unsafe to drink, carrying the threat of bilharzia. Only boiled or bottled water should be used. The recommended vaccinations when travelling to Mozambique include typhoid and hepatitis A. Hospital facilities are generally poor in Mozambique, especially in the north of the country. Make sure you have adequate travel health insurance and accessible funds to cover the cost of any medical treatment abroad and repatriation. There is a list of medical facilities/practitioners that are recommended for UN staff who may require these services and assistance in Mozambique.
